Echinacea & Goldenseal: Native American Herbs

Echinacea was first introduced to North American colonists by Native Americans, who used it for winter support for more than 5,000 years. In modern times, echinacea has become one of the most popular herbs in the United States.

Echinacea is used to support the natural defenses. Its beneficial activity is due to a number of constituents, including polysaccharides and echinacosides, a group of compounds found only in echinacea.

WELLNESS HERBAL RESISTANCE combines a 6:1 extract of Echinacea purpurea with standardized Echinacea angustifolia extract.

Goldenseal has been used by Native Americans for centuries to soothe sensitive mucous membranes, including those in the respiratory, digestive and genitourinary systems. Its beneficial properties are attributed to its alkaloids, especially berberine.

Yin Chiao: Classic Chinese Formula

According to traditional Chinese herbalism, Yin Chiao dispels excess body heat caused by the invading winds of cold, stormy weather. Best taken at the first signs of internal imbalance, Yin Chiao features herbs like lonicera (honeysuckle), forsythia, mint, and licorice.

Supporting Herbs

WELLNESS HERBAL RESISTANCE LIQUID includes other traditional botanicals. Elderberry has been honored for centuries in folk tradition because of its numerous health benefits. It is a rich source of nutrients, especially bioflavonoids and anthocyanins. The phytonutrients in elderberry positively influence cell function and protection in the human body, and support the immune system.

Isatis contains glycosides that help support the body's innate defenses; it is valued by herbalists as a complement to the benefits of echinacea and goldenseal.

Also part of the formula are the traditional Native American botanicals boneset and horehound; warming ginger; the renowned adaptogen Siberian ginseng; and bayberry.
