Niacinamide 500 MG

Healthy skin means healthy skin cells, and healthy skin cells are the basis of beautiful skin. Supporting the health and beauty of our skin goes beyond just outer caretaking with cleansers, masks, and moisturizers. While products such as these can be beneficial for skin health, Source Naturals® Skin Eternal® DNA Skin Support™ goes a step further to promote beautiful skin at the deepest level: the cells. In particular, it supports cellular energy production, which in turn powers the cells to do their work, including supporting DNA repair and immune function.*

Skin Eternal DNA Skin Support features niacinamide, a form of niacin, also known as vitamin B-3. It is central to normal cellular health and many functions of cells. Its core mode of action is to support the production of ATP (adenosine triphosphate), the cell's energy molecule. ATP is needed for almost every biochemical activity in the body. As the beauty and health of the skin depends on the health of the skin cells, this is truly a product that supports beauty from the inside out.*

ATP Energy

The body's cells require energy to survive and thrive. Niacinamide has been shown to support healthy ATP levels in skin cells. This support is important because the skin is our barrier to the harsh world outside. ATP energy allows skin cells to carry out normal repair processes, including repairs to DNA. ATP energy also supports a healthy immune response in the skin.*

By supporting healthy ATP production, niacinamide aids the skin in numerous ways, such as keeping the lipid barrier of the skin healthy and strong, keeping the cells hydrated, and it also supports an important function of skin that we take for granted, which is protecting against invading microbes.*
